The moment you step into the Sheikh Zayed Grand Mosque in Abu Dhabi after breakfast, you'll immediately understand why it is so special. People from all walks of life gather here, and while admiring this exquisite building, they will also have a deeper understanding of the religion and culture of the UAE. The Sheikh Zayed Grand Mosque is one of the largest mosques in the world. Its construction concept came from the founding father of the United Arab Emirates, Sheikh Zayed bin Sultan Al Nahyan. His vision is to create a cultural temple that embraces all rivers and streams, so that sentient beings from all over the world and with vastly different backgrounds can find spiritual enlightenment here. Not only the architectural concept, but also its construction process was a veritable cultural collaboration. The design and construction of this majestic building was a collaborative effort of skilled craftsmen from around the world, including 1,300 Iranian craftsmen who handwoven the carpet in the main prayer hall - the largest in the world. As you pass through the marble-paved hall, you will be greeted by unique treasures and wonders: gold-plated Swarovski crystal chandeliers, giant marble mosaics in the courtyard, and reflecting pools, in which columns inlaid with amethysts and jaspers are reflected. Coming outside, four 106-meter-high mosque minarets stand proudly for people to admire. Return to Dubai and visit the Zindagah Museum (40 pavilions) located on the historic water side of Dubai Creek, telling the story of this country's sacred and proud past. The museum features a state-of-the-art multimedia project: "Dubai Creek: The Birth of a City", which guides visitors through the region's dramatic changes over the centuries. Carefully curated museum exhibitions feature interactive films, touch screens, photographs and artefacts, giving visitors an insight into how Emirati people lived by the water in the past and how maritime trade impacted their livelihoods.

After breakfast, Iran Town, formerly known as Bastakiya, is also one of the oldest ruins in Dubai. It is located to the east of the Dubai Museum. Due to the discovery and mining of oil, residents gradually moved away and gradually fell into decline. In 2005, the Dubai government funded the restoration of the place, which restored the unknown architectural style of the area and allowed tourists to understand the history of Arabs living in Paris in the past. Dubai is divided into new and old districts by the bay, and local residents rely on water taxis to travel between the two sides for work. When taking this highly local means of transportation, you can see famous attractions such as the Dubai Museum and the Gold and Spice Souks located next to the pier. Dubai's Gold Street, located in GoldSouk in Old Town, Dubai, is the world's third largest gold trading center. The entire Golden Street is really only one street, less than one kilometer long, but the number of stores here and the variety of gold jewelry sold here are absolutely jaw-dropping. Gold is sold like cabbage. When you are in Golden Street, your eyes are filled with gold, and you feel as if you have fallen into a golden treasure cave. It has to be said that this is a fantasy in reality. In the afternoon, guests can choose to go to the desert to experience desert safari at their own expense. Desert safari introduction: Desert trip: Take an air-conditioned off-road four-wheel drive vehicle into the desert area and shuttle through the undulating sand dunes. Freely shoot the wonders of the desert sunset along the way and experience the fun of sandboarding. Arriving at the camp in the middle of the desert in the evening, group members can try the fun of sandboarding on their own, feel the unique romantic atmosphere of the desert, and enjoy an authentic belly dance performance. Group members can also show off their skills and dance with beautiful dancers. Enjoy a rich and delicious Arabic barbecue meal, taste Arabic shisha, drink various drinks (except alcoholic ones), and also take photos in Arabic costumes and paint hand-painted Arabic paintings.
