Arriving at Taoyuan Airport on an early flight, our tour guide picked us up at Taoyuan Airport and started our trip to Taiwan. [Longshan Temple] Longshan Temple faces north and faces south. It is a Chinese classical palace-style building with three entrances and a quadrangle. It consists of a front hall, a main hall, a back hall and left and right guard dragons. The front hall has 11 bays and is divided into Sanchuan Hall, Longmen Hall and Humen Hall. In front of the Sanchuan Hall, there is a pair of copper-cast dragon pillars that are the only ones seen in Taiwan. The front wall is made of a mixture of granite and green dou stone. Most of the stories on the walls are from the Romance of the Three Kingdoms and the List of Gods, which are full of educational significance. The roof of the main hall is built in the Xieshan style with double eaves, and is composed of a total of 42 pillars along the four-sided horse corridor. There are many stone carvings of famous calligraphers on the outer walls of the hall. The spirulina well in the hall does not require a nail or iron, and is entirely constructed of Dougong inlaid with each other. The roof of the apse adopts the Xieshan double eaves style, which is a typical place for worshiping Confucian and Taoist gods and Buddhas. The left and right guard dragons are equipped with bell towers and drum towers, morning bells and evening drums. Its sedan-top flat hexagonal roof has a unique shape. The temple's roof ridges and cornices are shaped by mascots such as dragons, phoenixes, and unicorns, and are decorated with cut-and-stick and Jiaozhi pottery. The colors are magnificent and can be called the essence of Taiwan's cut-and-stick art. [National Palace Museum] The National Palace Museum has nearly 700,000 cultural relics and works of art in its collection, most of which were originally collected by the National Palace Museum in Peking, the Preparatory Office of the National Museum of Central China, and the National Peking Library from the Forbidden City and Shengjingxing. It includes the royal collections of the Imperial Palace, Summer Resort, Summer Palace, Jingyi Garden and Imperial College; others were budgeted for acquisitions, some cultural relics returned from Japan after the end of World War II, and donations and collections from all walks of life. The collection spans 8,000 years from the Neolithic Age to the present. Various collections are managed by three curatorial departments: the Artifacts Department, the Painting and Calligraphy Documentation Department, and the South Campus Department. Among them, the most influential collections include bronzes with long inscriptions, paintings and calligraphy by famous artists in early antiquity, rare ancient books, and official kiln porcelain. The 7,000 exhibits are systematically displayed in the exhibition hall in a chronological manner according to the categories of cultural relics. The artifact exhibits are rotated every six months to two years, and the calligraphy, painting, and books and documents exhibits are regularly replaced every three months. [Taipei 101] Taipei 101 is located in the most elite area of Taipei. It is the largest engineering project in the history of the domestic construction industry. This project is mainly planned by Taipei Financial Tower Co., Ltd., which is composed of 14 domestic companies, together with domestic and foreign professional teams, and is carefully designed by international architect Li Zuyuan. It was the tallest building in the world from its completion on December 1, 2004 to January 7, 2010. It is currently the tallest building in Taiwan and the only building in Taiwan with a height of more than 500 meters and more than 100 floors. "Taipei 101 summit fee not included"

[Jiufen Old Street] Jiufen, which was rich in gold mines in the early days, is known as the "Golden Mountain City". Various shops gather in the narrow streets, and the aroma of traditional food is fragrant. Be sure to try Jiufen's classic snacks such as taro balls, meatballs, and grass cakes. There are also small and cute antique toys and souvenir gifts with Taiwanese characteristics, giving tourists a dazzling array of shopping options. Visitors can explore the winding alleys of Jiufen and appreciate the beauty of Jiufen from different angles. [2025 Taoyuan Lantern Festival] The 2025 Taiwan Lantern Festival will be held in Taoyuan City again after 2016. Taoyuan City is an international aviation city. This exhibition is planned with aviation city elements. The main exhibition area is tentatively scheduled to be located at the Zhongli Sports Park reservation site and around Juguang Park. The site space is connected in the shape of the zodiac snake, and the lighting area layout will integrate traditional lighting arts, It is also expected to invite international professional art teams to participate in many elements such as artistic design, environmental protection and energy conservation, local characteristics, mechanical dynamics, innovative technology, etc., hoping to create an international-level lighting feast, attract more foreign tourists to participate through the geographical convenience, and showcase the diverse features of technology, wisdom, art, innovation and internationalization in the capital city.

D5 2/13(Four) Sun Moon Lake (Lake Tour) ~ Man Mo Temple

Today's meal	Breakfast: Hotel breakfast	Lunch: Four Seasons Steamed Banquet	Dinner: True Peking
Today's accommodation	4★ Canaan Fenghua Hotel or similar class

[Sun Moon Lake] is a semi-natural freshwater lake and hydroelectric power reservoir located in Riyue Village, Yuchi Township, Nantou County, Taiwan; the lake is the second largest lake in Taiwan (after Tseng Wen Reservoir) and the largest semi-natural lake and power generation reservoir. It contains rich natural ecology, but many of them are exotic species. The pool is one of the main areas where the Thao people of the Pingpu ethnic group in Taiwan live, and it belongs to the traditional territory of the Thao people. The tribesmen living around the pool call it "Shuishehai". Because the nearby Pingpu people used to call the Gaoshan people living in the mountains "Shalian" and the area is the largest water basin in the mountainous area, Sun Moon Lake and its surrounding areas were named "Shuishalian". In addition, there are other names such as "Shuishe Dahu", "Longhu", "Zhutan" and "Double Pool". Its current name is the combination of Sun Lake and Moon Lake. The two names come from the description of the water color and outline of its two major components. At the same time, the scenery of the lake has been often appreciated by people since ancient times, and has been included in the Eight Scenic Spots of Taiwan by the relevant authorities many times since the Japanese rule. [Man Mo Temple] In 1969, Wen Mo Temple was rebuilt into a Northern Dynasties-style building in China. It is large-scale and majestic. The temple is divided into three halls. The Shuiyun Palace on the second floor of the front hall is dedicated to Kaiji Yuanzu and Emperor Wenchang. The Wusheng Temple in the middle hall is dedicated to Emperor Guan Sheng and King Yuewu Mu. The Dacheng Hall in the back hall is dedicated to Confucius, the most holy teacher. Confucianism, Buddhism, and Taoism all live together. The Dacheng Hall of the Man Mo Temple is the only Confucius temple in Taiwan that has a middle door. According to the temple officials, this is because the Wen Mo Temple is located on the bank of the Sun Moon Lake and usually has a lot of tourists. The middle door was added to facilitate the entry and exit of tourists. There is no special purpose. However, the bronze seated statue of Confucius in the Dacheng Hall is the only Confucius statue in Taiwan. In addition to the statues of Confucius, there are also statues of Mencius and Zisizi in the temple. These three statues were originally enshrined in China. During the Boxer Rebellion in the late

Qing Dynasty, they were moved to Sayama Fudoji Temple in Japan. They were later copied and moved to the Wenwu Temple. As for the statues of Yanzi and Zengzi, their descendants raised funds to build them. They followed Confucius and influenced their appearance.

D6 2/14(five) Alishan National Forest Recreation Area ~ Alishan Train ~ Mountain Tea Tasting ~ Fengjia Night

Today's meal	Breakfast: Hotel breakfast Lunch: Taiwanese cuisine Dinner: Fengjia Night Market (at your own expense)
Today's accommodation	4★Taichung Fengyi Hotel or similar class

[Alishan National Forest Recreation Area] Alishan National Forest Recreation Area has the "Five Wonders" scenery of the forest train, sacred trees, sea of clouds, sunrise and sunset. It is the most famous and popular forest recreation area in Taiwan. It is an emerald on the Alishan Mountains, shining with dazzling light. [Alishan Train] The Alishan Forestry Railway is Taiwan’ s alpine forestry railway system and the first important cultural landscape in Taiwan. The "Alishan Forest Railway" is also one of the 18 potential World Heritage sites in Taiwan. The railway was built during the Japanese colonial period to transport the trees produced by the Alishan Forest Farm. After the logging business of the forest farm ended, passenger transportation and sightseeing became the main functions of the railway. [Alishan High Mountain Tea Tasting]We carefully select Alishan high mountain tea at an altitude of 1,600 meters to ensure that no tea is mixed and no pesticide residues remain, allowing tea lovers to drink happily and safely! Sip the tea soup, smell the aroma, quietly appreciate the curled tea leaves, linger in the hot water, and stretch out in an elegant manner. The tea color is clear and the tea soup is sweet. This moment is the most peaceful and happy time. We invite you to taste 100% original Alishan high mountain tea. [Fengjia Night Market] Fengjia Wenhua Night Market is located at the side entrance of Fengjia University, spanning Wenhua Road to Fuxing Road. It mainly attracts young consumers. It is strategically located at the junction of the school district and the urban area, and has gradually become the leader of night markets in Taichung City. Compared with other night markets, Fengjia Wenhua Night Market is not only famous for its food, but also has many shops and longer opening hours. In recent years, the night market has undergone renovations to attract more consumers, the business district has expanded, and it has become one of the top ten tourist attractions in Taichung City.

Due to the effects of weathering, sea erosion and crustal movement, it has created wonders such as mushroom-shaped rocks, sea caves, tofu rocks, candle-shaped rocks and pot holes. It is an internationally renowned natural scenic spot. Among them, "Queen's Head" is Yehliu's most representative landmark and popular check-in point. The Yehliu Coast Headland area is divided into three major areas. The first area has various and unique mushroom-shaped rocks and candlestick rocks. Here you can see the development process of mushroom-shaped rocks. The mushroom-shaped rocks of different sizes are lined up to form a healing and lovely shape. The scenery of Yehliu: Queen's Head, Dragon Head Stone and Diamond are in the second area. This area is close to the sea and you can also see "Fairy Shoes", "Peanut Stone" and other landscapes. When you come to Yehliu, don't forget to look for them! The third area is a sea erosion platform with special rock shapes such as 24 filial piety stones and pearl stones. This area is also an important ecological conservation area in Yehliu Park. When you come to Yehliu, don’ t forget to look for them! [Ximending] Ximending has many famous landmarks and shopping malls, such as the rainbow landscape of IG check-in spots, the Ximen Red Building with a history of more than 100 years, the era-marked Wannian Commercial Building, and the American-style Ximending American Street, etc.; there are also a variety of food gathered here, such as Hong Kong cuisine, Taiwanese cuisine, American cuisine, beverages, ice creams, cafes, bars and other meals.
